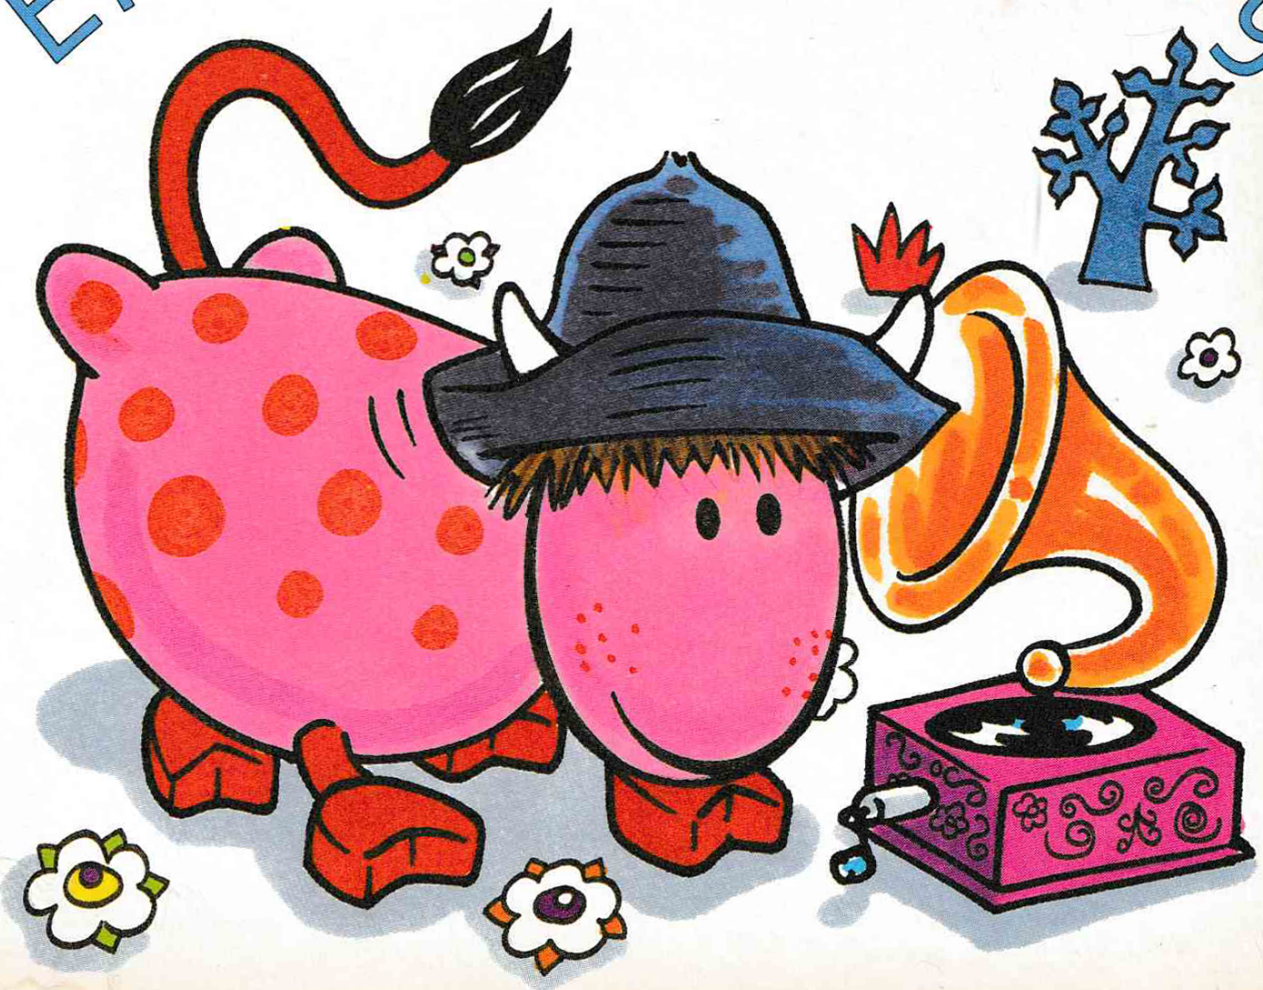
THE MAGIC ROUNDABOUT

Ermintrude's Story

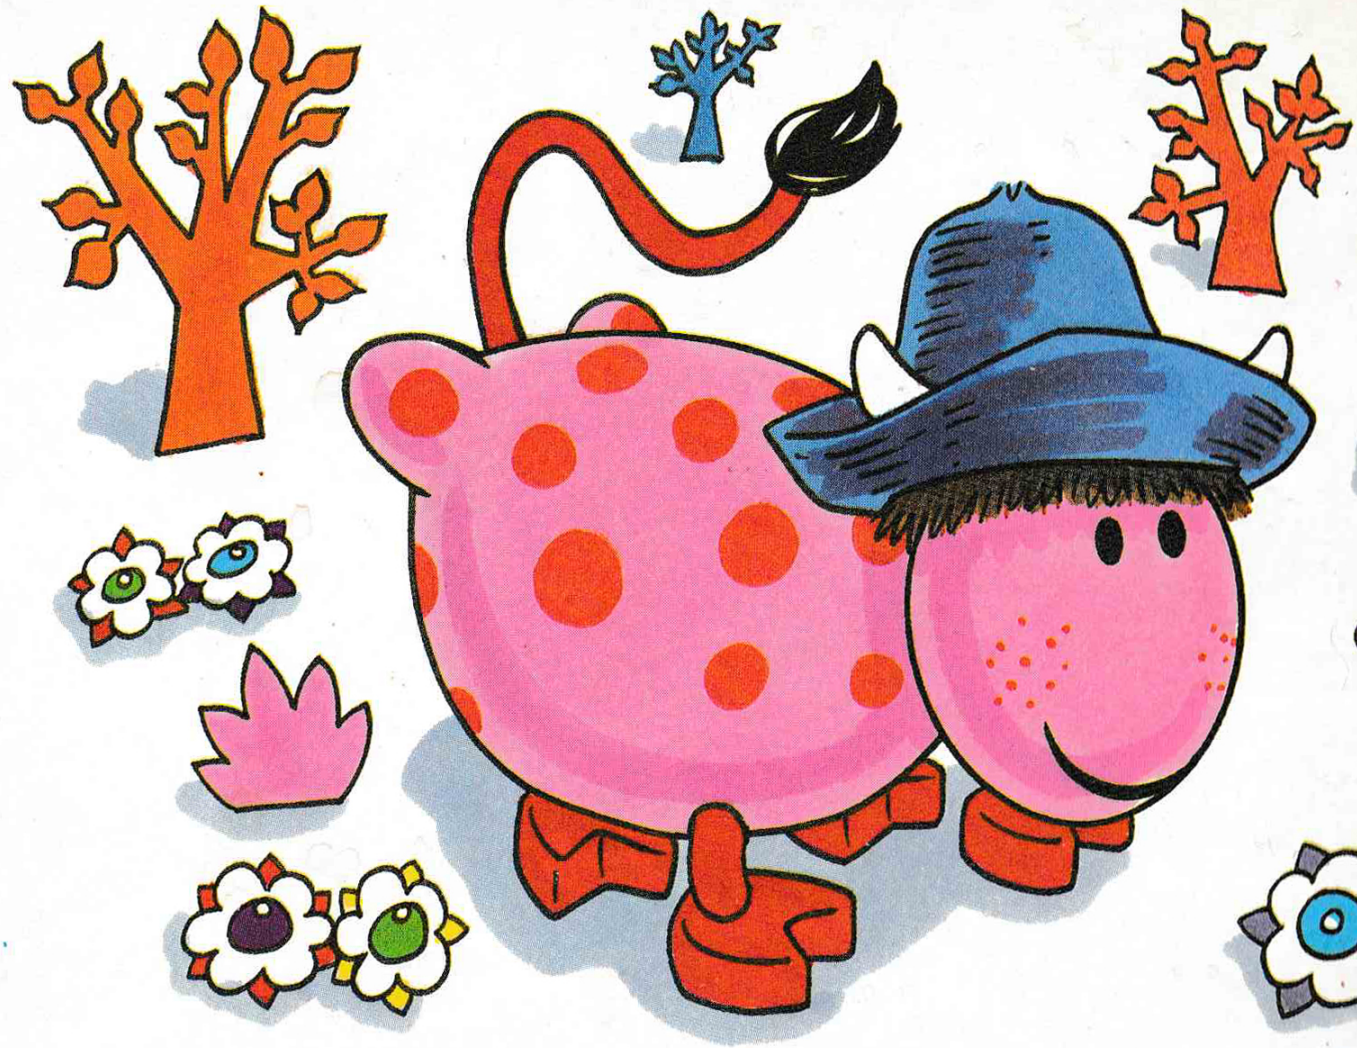


Everyone likes Ermintrude.

Except when she tries to sing!

"What can we do to stop her?"
grumbles Dougal.

"I've had an idea," says Florence.

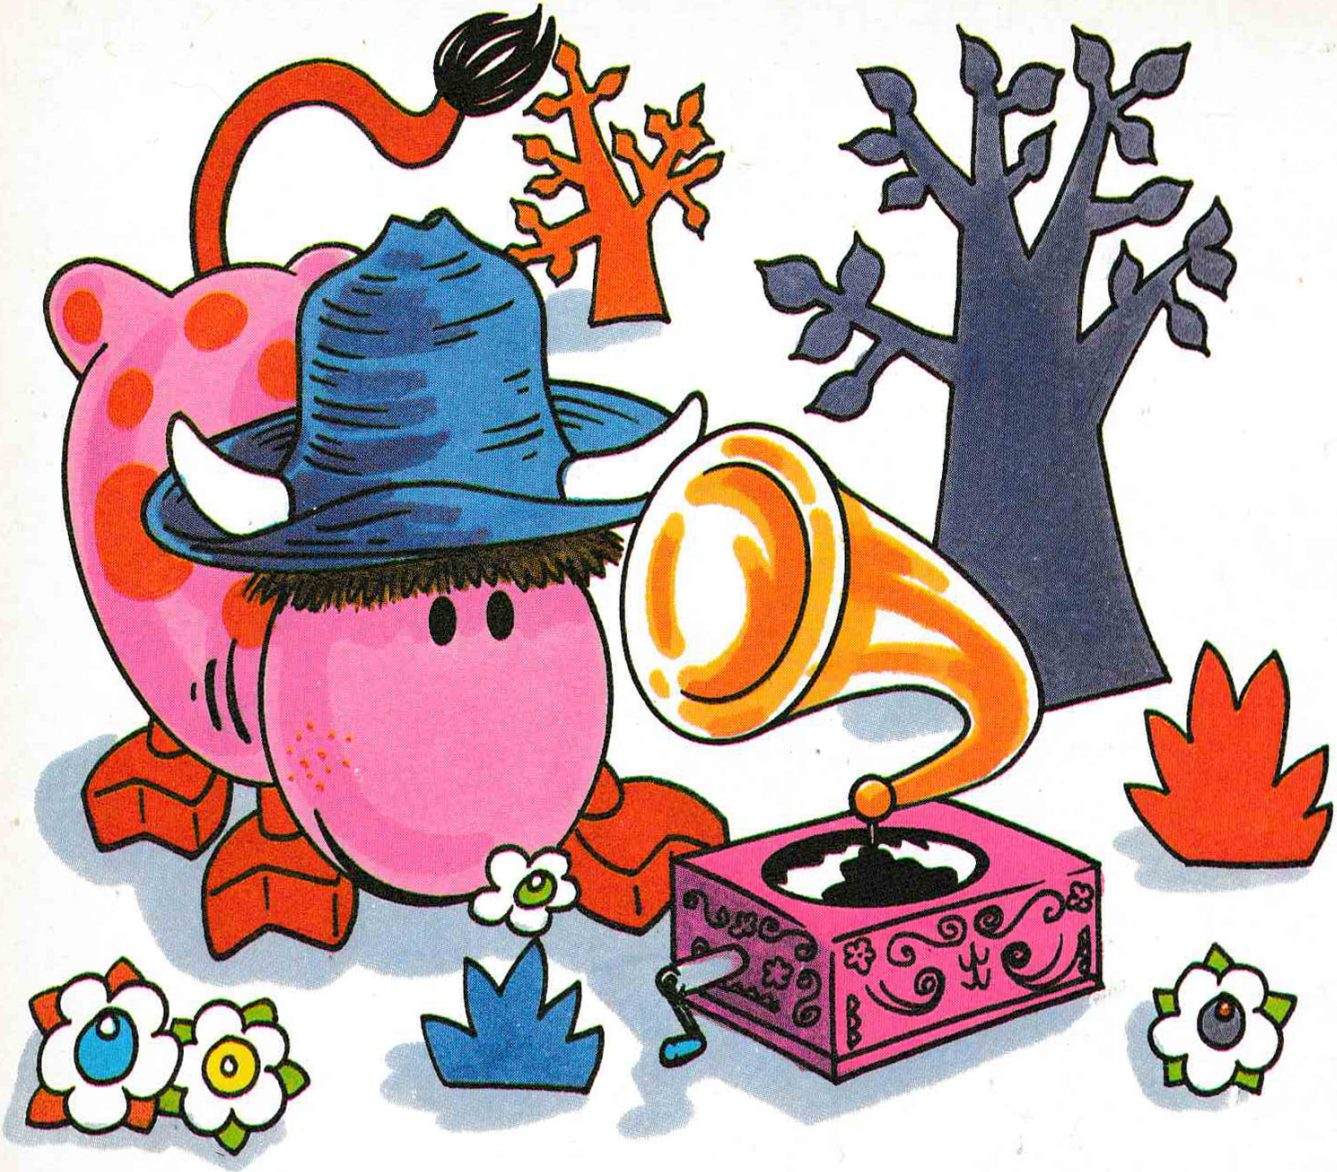


Later, Florence talks to Ermintrude.

"Doesn't singing make you tired?" she asks.

"Oh no, dear. I enjoy it too much," says Ermintrude.

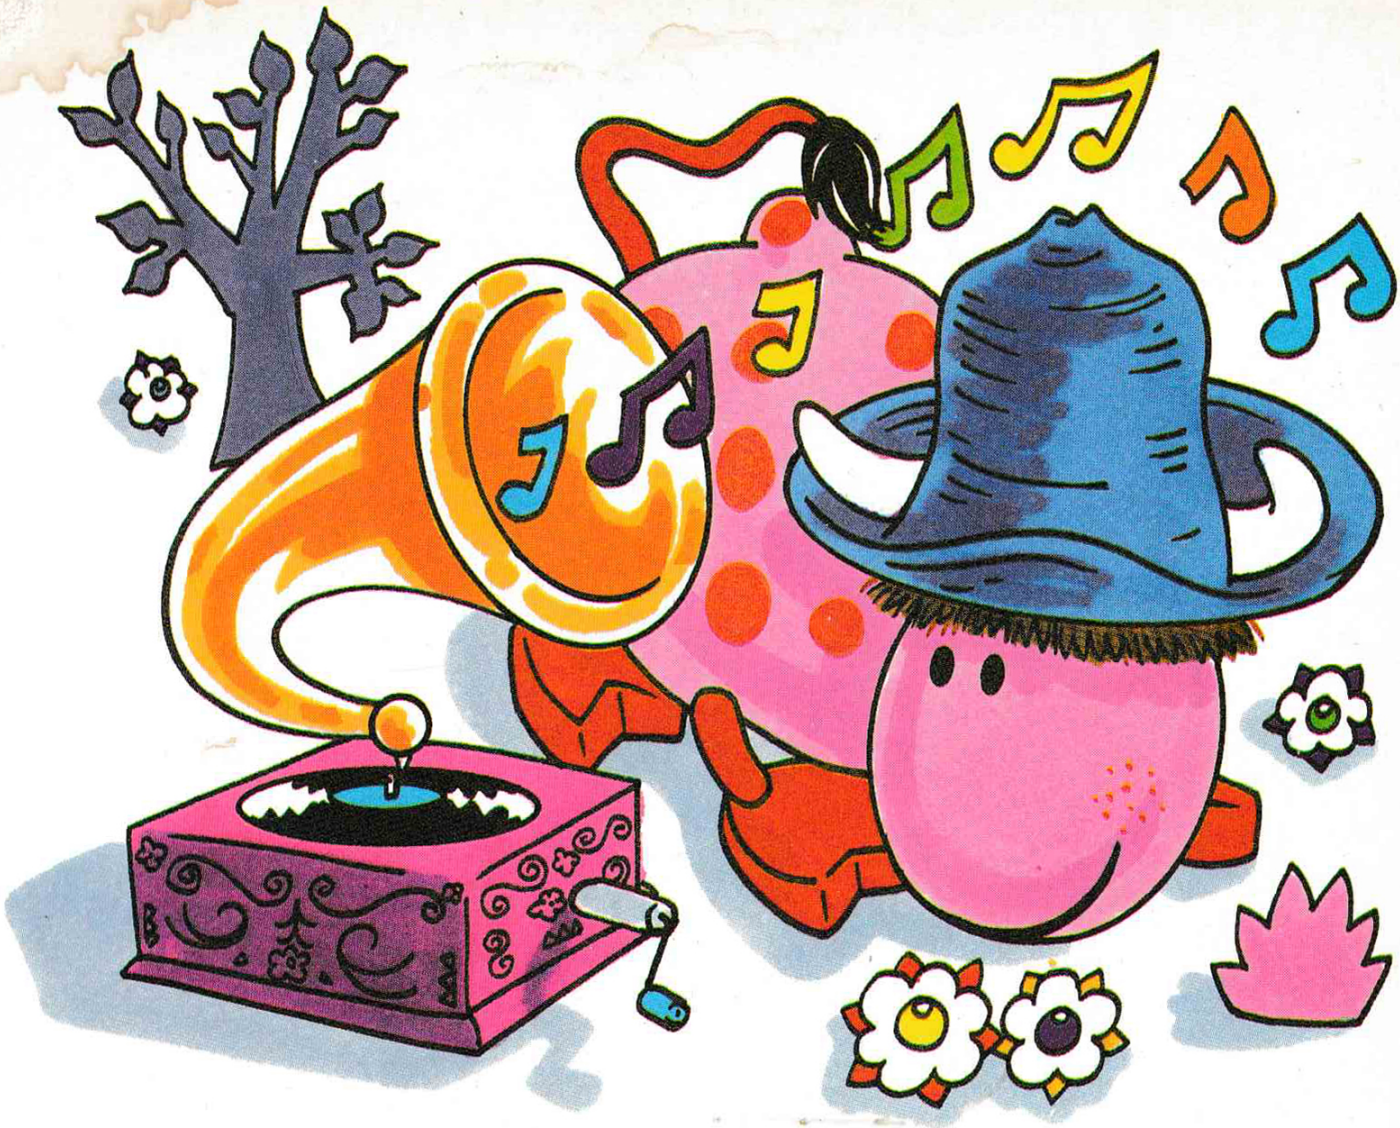
"Perhaps you can listen to this instead," says Florence.



"What is it?" asks Ermintrude.

"It's a gramophone. It plays music."

Florence turns the handle.



"It has a beautiful voice," says Ermintrude.

"I shall always listen to it."

"Thank goodness for that!" says Dougal.

Story by Helen Lloyd
Illustrations by Primary Design

Join Ermintrude and her friends for an adventure in the enchanted garden where the Magic Roundabout plays.

William Heinemann Ltd.
81 Fulham Road, London SW3 6RB

First published 1992 by William Heinemann Ltd
Magic Roundabout © Serge Danot/AB Productions
Licensed by Link Licensing
Text and illustrations © 1992 William Heinemann Ltd

Printed in Italy by Cartotecnica Montebello s.r.l.

ISBN 0-434-96237-6

9 780434 962372

£2.99